HUMANITY

POWELL FELLOWSHIP
Teaching for Humanity:

Powell Holocaust Summer Institute

August 6—10, 2018

At the Henry and Sandra Friedman Holocaust Center for Humanity, Seattle

The Holocaust Center for Humanity offers an intensive 5-day summer institute designed for teachers of grades 6-12.

In a collaborative environment, Powell Fellows will:

- Explore in-depth topics of the Holocaust, genocide, and human rights
- Gain practical tools to bring these lessons effectively to their students
- Identify and use materials that align with Common Core State Standards
- Integrate local stories into their lessons
- Hear from national scholars, local experts, and experienced educators
- Take part in field trips to areas of interest
- Become part of a dynamic and motivated group of Powell Fellows

Accommodations will be provided.

Details and to apply:

Participants will explore topics related to Holocaust history, including antisemitism, rescue and resistance, genocide, non-Jewish victims of the Holocaust, Japanese-American Internment, current events, and local connections. Each day will focus on selected themes and will include reference and discussion of today's world and practical applications for the classroom.

Participants who complete the program will become the third cohort of Powell Fellows. In the year following the seminar, Powell Fellows will be responsible for incorporating at least one local Holocaust story into their lessons or curriculum, and submitting this lesson to the Holocaust Center. During the summer institute, teachers will spend time working together in small groups to develop and prepare these lessons for their classrooms.

Powell Fellows will have the opportunity to participate in advanced professional development opportunities throughout the year and will help to mentor new teachers.

Eligible teachers will currently be teaching grades 6-12 in a classroom. Seminar is limited to 20 participants. Overnight accommodations will be provided for those coming from outside of the greater Seattle area. Lunch will be provided each day.

Participation Fee—$100 due upon acceptance to the program. ($50 will be returned upon attendance.) Teachers can receive up to 40 clock hours. Application Deadline: April 1, 2018.
